Amy: Hi, I'm Amy. I'm looking for a room to rent in London for 5 days. My friend gave me your phone number, she stayed at your place last year. Do you have anything free in July?

Bob: Hi, Amy. Yes, I can rent one room between 5th and 9th of July.

A: Can you tell me more about this guest room?

B: It's a cosy room with a double bed. It has Wi-Fi and a TV.

A: Does it come with a private bathroom?

B: No, I'm afraid not. You have to share it with other rooms. But your room has a large terrace.

A: That's great. How about a kitchen?

B: Yes, there is a kitchen with a big fridge. It is downstairs. It has all you need to prepare meals.

A: Sounds great. Is there a place nearby where I can go shopping for food?

B: Yes, there is a nice supermarket not far away. Luckily, the bus stop is right outside the flat. But if you want to go shopping to the city centre, don't go by bus because it takes too much time. Don't take a taxi either, it's too expensive. So, the best way to get to the city centre is by underground. It will take you only 5 minutes to get to the nearest underground station.

A: That sounds perfect. How much is the room per night?

B: It's 50 pounds. But if you book it for 5 nights, it will cost you 5 pounds less. Also, after the summer season, from September to May, the price goes down to 40 pounds per night.

A: That's a good deal. I'd like to book it.

B: Great. To book the room, create an account on Airbnb and pay with your credit card. Then, I'll send you the address and the code to enter the flat.

A: Alright, what time can I check in?

B: You can check in any time after 3 p.m.

A: Thank you very much.

B: You're welcome. See you in London.

A: Thank you. Goodbye.

B: Goodbye.

Anna: Hi, Tom. Are you okay? I heard there was a tornado near your house last night.

Tom: Hi, Anna. Yes, I'm okay, thanks for asking. The tornado was very strong and loud. It was really scary.

A: How did you know that the tornado was coming? Did you get a text message on your phone or did your neighbour call you?

T: No, I didn't get a message and I didn't get a phone call. But I heard about the tornado on the radio news. They said there was a tornado warning for our area and we should go to the basement or hide in a room without windows, a garage, a closet or a bathroom.

A: That's good that you heard the warning. So, where did you go?

T: We couldn't go to the garage because the car was there. The bathroom was too small for us so I took some water and snacks and went to the basement with my family and our dog. We stayed there until the tornado passed.

A: How long did it take?

T: I don't know exactly, but it felt like forever. We could hear things crashing and breaking.

A: It sounds terrifying. Did the tornado destroy your house or anything else?

T: Yes, it did. Our roof was destroyed and some of our windows were broken. Luckily, not all of them.

A: Oh no, I'm so sorry to hear that. What about your beautiful garden?

T: Surprisingly, it looked fine. Nothing happened to it.

A: Happy to hear that. Who helped you with the whole mess? Did the firemen come?

T: No, they were busy somewhere else.

A: Do you need any help? Can I do anything for you?

T: Thank you, Anna. You are very kind. But we are okay for now. After the tornado, the Red Cross came and gave us and our neighbours some blankets and food. They also offered us a place to stay.

A: That's good to hear. Please call me if you need me, okay?

T: Okay, thanks. That means a lot.

Hello, listeners! Welcome to my podcast "No Vacancy", where we visit amazing hotels around the world. Today, I will be staying at the Thayer Hotel, located at the United States Military Academy at West Point. Now, some interesting facts about the hotel.

First, let's talk about its history. The Thayer Hotel is quite old. It was built in 1926. Can you imagine that, in its history, this hotel has welcomed even presidents?

Interested in staying there? If so, it's time to talk about accommodation. The Thayer Hotel offers 128 elegant rooms. In every room, there is a huge flat-screen TV and a coffee maker. Additional things are available too. You just have to ask for them.

Alright! Let's take a look at dining options there. The best place to eat is definitely the MacArthur's Restaurant. It has amazing views of the Hudson River. And on the restaurant menu, you can find, for example, a chocolate cake. It's delicious!

Now, let's move on to some chilling facts about the hotel. Over the years, people have seen ghosts there. The first one is the ghost of the Father of the Academy, Colonel Thayer. But he is not the only ghost at the hotel. Let me tell you about the second one you can meet there. You can see this ghost walking on the first floor. It is a smiling woman. Scary, isn't it?

And, just to finish it off. Remember you can stay at the Thayer Hotel all year long. But I recommend going there on Valentine's Day. If you book your stay for that day, you won't regret it. You will see beautiful decorations inside the hotel. And, to make it even better, on Valentine's Day, the hotel guests can eat a romantic dinner there. Alright! Time to go now! The Thayer Hotel is definitely worth visiting. To contact the hotel ...

Mark: Hi! It's Mark and Jennifer! Welcome to our weekly podcast "Islands of Secrets." Today, we will talk about North Sentinel Island in the Indian Ocean. So, what's the secret of this island, Jennifer?

Jennifer: It's the local people who live there. We call them the Sentinelese people.

M: Why are they so special?

J: They are special because nobody has contacted them so far. Scientists know absolutely nothing about the Sentinelese people. For example, they don't know their language. They have no idea how they communicate.

M: How is that possible?

J: It's because they are dangerous.

M: What do you mean by that? Do they have a strong army?

J: Army? No, they don't have any army. They are too primitive for that.

M: So, what's the problem?

J: Well, they just don't want to contact other people.

M: What a shame! They live in such a beautiful place. The photos of the island on the Internet look great.

J: I know, they do. But they are taken by drones. No photographer wants to go there. It's too dangerous. So, forget about booking a trip there. Trips to North Sentinel Island are not organised.

M: Does this mean that nobody has tried to visit the island?

J: Well, one American man wanted to do it in 2018. He had a mission to talk to the Sentinelese people about Jesus Christ and religion. He went there alone by boat.

M: And? What happened to him?

J: Nothing good, I'm afraid. When the Sentinelese people saw him on their island, they attacked him, and killed him immediately.

M: They did? They really want to be left alone.

J: Yes, they do! I can give you one more example. In 2004, a horrible thing happened. The biggest tsunami in history hit the region. Many people died in Thailand, Indonesia and Sri Lanka. The tsunami hit North Sentinel Island too. And, even in that situation, when rescue helicopters came to offer help, the Sentinalese people attacked them, and the pilots had to fly away.

M: Really? That's interesting! I can't wait to see where you will take me next.

J: I won't disappoint you, Mark. See you next Monday!

Welcome to the Carpet Museum in Baku, the capital city of Azerbaijan. This museum has one of the largest collections of Azerbaijani carpets, but it's not the biggest carpet museum in the world. The largest one is the Carpet Museum of Iran in Tehran. We are on the first floor now to see the oldest carpets in the museum. As you can see, our collection is really impressive. If you take a look at this carpet, you will see the talent of our artists. And good news now! When we finish visiting this floor, you will become carpet artists too. That's right, our dear visitors. You will have a chance to make your own carpets today! But that's going to happen later on. Now, take a look at this carpet ...
